Dominicans Charge Cuba Offered Base

Duvalier's Regime Reportedly Imposes News Censorship

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Santo Domingo charged Tuesday that President Francois Duvalier of Haiti had close ties with Communist nations and had offered a military base to Cuba.

The latest charge in Santo Domingo's blazing feud with neighboring Haiti was laid before an inter-American peace mission by Foreign Minister Andres Freites.

The mission arrived from New York to head off a threatened military clash between the two neighbors, then flew on to Port au Prince.

Morris Rosenberg, AP correspondent in Port au Prince, reported Duvalier's regime imposed censorship on outgoing news dispatches shortly after the team from the Organization of American States arrived.

Haiti-Czech Deal Reported

Details of Freites' charges were not made public, but there were reports they said Haiti had entered into some sort of arrangement with Communist Czechoslovakia.

In Washington, State Department press officer Lincoln White said he was unaware of an offer by Duvalier to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, nor did he know anything about reports of a deal between Czechoslovakia and Haiti. Haiti is only 50 miles from Cuba.

The mission, headed by OAS Council President Gonzalo Fazio of Costa Rica, scheduled talks in Port au Prince with Duvalier and Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers to try to calm tempers and head off a conflict between the neighboring enemies on the Caribbean island of Hispaniola.

Duvalier Backs Down

Trouble erupted over the weekend. Santo Domingo charged that Haitian troops invaded its embassy in Port au Prince, apparently in search of Duvalier opponents who had sought refuge in the building.

The Dominican Republic broke diplomatic relations, threatened to use force unless the troops were withdrawn, and readied its army and navy for action.

Haiti withdrew its guards from the embassy grounds and promised to respect the security of diplomatic missions. The guards were stationed across the street from the embassy.

The Dominican Republic claimed a bloodless victory. But President Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic expressed fear that violence was not over.

Indonesia Takes Over New Guinea

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—The banner of Indonesia will be raised Wednesday over this wild and primitive land where war between the Indonesians and Dutch threatened a year ago.

While the takeover from the United Nations will be peaceful, this administrative capital, once the headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the war with Japan, looks like an armed camp.

The ceremony will include speeches by Dr. Djalal Abdo, U.N. administrator of the territory, and Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio, who will read a message from President Sukarno. A message from U.N. Secretary-General U Thant will be read and then the U.N. flag will be replaced by the flag of Indonesia.

Directors voted to continue paying a 50 cent a share dividend to stockholders. This dividend rate which was cut from 75 cents last year, is payable June 10 to holders of record May 10.

Billion Dollar Deficit Slash Is Possibility

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said Tuesday the economy has shown such improvement since January that President Kennedy's estimated $11.9 billion deficit for fiscal 1964 may be reduced.

If the improvement continues, he said, tax revenues may exceed the January estimate of $86.9 billion by as much as $1 billion. If spending is held to the $98.8 billion forecast by the President, the entire $1 billion could be applied against the deficit.

Addressing the annual meeting of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Dillon said: "based upon the performance of our economy in the last few months, our prospects for the year are relatively better than most observers had expected."

Despite the business advances, Dillon said the President's $10.3 billion tax cut-reform program was needed to further stimulate the economy and help reduce unemployment. He made clear the administration would continue to push for revenue-raising tax reforms.

Election Defeat Perils Fanfani Government

Reds Score Record Gains

By EUGENE LEVIN

ROME (AP)—Italy's unpredictable voters have handed Premier Amintore Fanfani's Christian Democrat party its worst election beating. His left-leaning government is in jeopardy.

The Communists, picking up a million votes over their showing in 1958's election, won a full quarter of the total. Forming the biggest Communist party outside the Red sphere, they rank No. 2 in Italian politics.

The Christian Democrats maintained their standing as Italy's No. 1 party, but with little consolation.

Their total of seats dropped from 46 to 41 per cent in the Chamber of Deputies and from 50 to 42 per cent in the Senate.

Possible Upheaval Looms

Among their partners in a coalition government that has experimentally swung this North Atlantic Treaty nation leftward, only the Democratic Socialists improved on their 1958 showing. The Republicans lost ground. So did the Marxist Socialists of Pietro Nenni, who have been voting with the government supporters in Parliament.

All together, these parties maintain their parliamentary majority, but with a reduced edge over the opposition.

Long holding roughly 24 per cent of the seats in the Parliament, the Communists jubilantly moved up to about 27 per cent.

For this nation of 50 million, which is to play host to President Kennedy in June, the results signaled a possible upheaval.

There was talk in Rome that Fanfani's days are numbered.

It would surprise few people if President Antonio Segni, himself a moderate Christian Democrat, dropped Fanfani and named a known fence-mender such as Aldo Moro, the party boss, or Interior Minister Paolo Emilio Taviani to the premiership.

Liberals Double Vote

The Christian Democrats, who led Italy out of World War II, desolation to its greatest economic prosperity, dropped to their lowest share of the popular vote in a parliamentary election since Italy became a republic.

The combined vote of the Communists and Marxist Socialists exceeded that of Christian Democrats. The left had never before done so well.

The Liberals, a small conservative party advocating free enterprise and opposing Fanfani's "opening to the left," doubled their vote.

Italian Election bjt nl Gal 2

In both houses, the voting pattern was the same. In a Chamber enlarged to 630 seats the Christian Democrats won only 260, compared with 273 they held in the 596-seat outgoing chamber.

In the new 315-seat Senate they won 133 seats against the 123 they held in the previous 246-seat Senate.

The Communists saw their Chamber total rise from 140 to 166 and their Senate representation from 60 to 85. The other big gainers, the Liberals, more than quadrupled their Senate seats from 4 to 19 and more than doubled their Chamber seats from 17 to 39.

Senate Forces Will Seek New Mail Rate Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate forces moved Tuesday to bail out the Post Office Department from deficit troubles and stave off a threatened cut in postal services.

Chairman Olin D. Johnson, D-S. C., of the Senate Post Office Committee said he would push for passage of legislation that would raise parcel post rates to bring in an additional $70 to $100 million a year in revenues.

At the same time, Johnson told a reporter he hoped the Senate Appropriations Committee would restore a substantial portion of the $92 million which the House voted to cut from the post office budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The combination of increased revenues through parcel post rate hikes and restoration of money requests for the department's operating expenses "should and would" prevent a reduction in postal services, Johnson said.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day told a Senate appropriations subcommittee last week that if House cuts are not restored, he may have to discontinue Saturday deliveries and mail service to new office buildings and residential areas.

GOP In Senate Opens Attack On Public Works Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Funds for President Kennedy's stepped-up public works program, lost and then rescued in the House, came under a new Republican attack in the Senate Tuesday.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., offered a proposal to slash the House-approved $450 million total for the controversial program to $250 million. A vote was scheduled for Wednesday.

President Kennedy originally asked for $500 million in appropriations for the program which is designed as a brake on unemployment. The House Appropriations Committee struck the funds from a supplemental money bill, but the $450 million was restored on the House floor.

Before Saltonstall acted, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., predicted that the Senate would reject any major cut in the public works money. Saltonstall's action drew some GOP support, but his proposed cut was attacked by some senators in both parties.

Harriman Gets K's Promise Of Help In Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman brought President Kennedy Tuesday what he called reassurance that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev intends to abide by his 1961 Vienna commitment on neutrality for Laos.

"He specifically asked me to tell the President that he had every intention of fulfilling the agreement with him," Harriman said after reporting to the President for about 50 minutes on his talk in Moscow last week with Khrushchev.

Harriman said Khrushchev agreed to have the Soviet ambassador in the Laotian capital of Vientiane "work very closely" with the U.S. and British Ambassadors to restore calm to the area.

Harriman blamed the Communist Pathet Lao forces for attacks which disrupted efforts by the neutralist and rightist groups to maintain a peaceful coalition in Laos. He also accused North Vietnamese military personnel of encouraging the Reds to move.

The agency broadcast a long list of foreign delegations attending the reception but did not mention any Russians.

Blimp-Shaped Bathyscaph To Seek Thresher

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (UPI)—

The Navy bathyscaph Trieste made a test dive in Boston Harbor Tuesday as a naval board of inquiry continued its investigation of the fatal dive of the submarine Thresher with a loss of 129 men.

The blimp-shaped Trieste, which the Navy hopes will be able to photograph the sunken hull of the Thresher, submerged 36 feet beside a dock. The test dive was described as "satisfactory."

The Trieste, which was shipped from the West Coast, will be used to photograph the Thresher if search vessels can pin point the location of the sunken hull some 220 miles east of Cape Cod.

Aboard the Trieste were Lt. George W. Martin of Brooklyn, and Capt. Frank C. Jones of Charleston, W. Va., Boston navy yard commander.

Martin said the dive was designed to "test the equilibrium" of the Trieste and to check out its scanning sonar, underwater phones and underwater motors for a deeper dive Wednesday.

Jones, who was making his first dive, said he was "very comfortable" aboard the Trieste. He went down as an observer.

U.S. Embassy Staff Boycotts May Day

MOSCOW, Wednesday (UPI)—A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Ambassador Foy D. Kohler and the embassy staff are boycotting the Soviet May Day celebrations today in Red Square in which Cuban Premier Fidel Castro was starred.

It was the first such May Day boycott since the United States established relations with the Soviet Union in 1933.

The spokesman declined to state the official reason for the boycott. However, it was understood to have been sparked by the presence of Castro who took Cuba into the Communist camp under the nose of the United States.

Kennedy To Bypass Rome, Vatican On Italian Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, according to present plans, will not visit Rome or have an audience with Pope John XXIII during his late-June visit to Italy, it was learned Tuesday.

Instead, Kennedy plans to confine his Italian journey to stops in Milan and a secluded retreat near that city where he will confer with the Italian prime minister.

Kennedy is expected to leave around June 20 for his trip to Italy, West Germany and Ireland. Originally, the President was to make a state visit to Rome accompanied by Mrs. Kennedy. And it was assumed that while there, the first Roman Catholic president of the United States would have an audience with the Pope.

However, plans for the Italian trip were altered after the Easter Monday announcement that Mrs. Kennedy expects her third child late in August.

On April 16, the White House announced that the state visit to Rome would be postponed until early 1964, when Mrs. Kennedy would be able to accompany her husband.

Presbyterian General Assembly Bids Opened Favors Ordination Of Women For Bridge To Assateague Is.

By J. RICHARD TOREN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church U.S. South voted 249-173 in favor of ordination of women into the ministry.

The vote was on a motion to submit the question to the denomination's 80 Presbyteries for ratification. If a majority approve, the 1964 Assembly could then amend the Book of Church Order to authorize ordination. Individual congregations would still decide whether to install women as deacons, ruling or lay elders, or ministers.

The vote came after the most extended debate of the five-day Assembly, which closed Monday night, half a day before scheduled adjournment. Most of the arguments centered on what the Holy Scriptures have to say on the subject, with both sides quoting Paul's Epistles in their favor.

Urge Segregation

Earlier, churches and institutions which still maintain racial barriers were urged by their highest legislative body to adopt a "non-discriminatory" policy toward Negroes. The policy statement approved was somewhat weaker than one recommended by the Permanent Committee on Christian Relations, headed by Negro minister Irvin Elligan, Richmond, Va.

That committee had offered a straight-forward recommendation for "every presbyterian institution whether church, school, orphanage, home for the aged, or conference center Boards and Agencies of the Church (to) abolish all racial barriers and references, and that this non-discriminatory policy be made known to the public."

Approve Statement

In place of that, on the advice of its standing Committee on Christian Relations the 456-member assembly — which includes nine Negro commissioners — approved a statement:

— Commending churches and institutions that have abolished race barriers since the assembly first spoke out strongly against them in 1954.

— "Again urging that a non-discriminatory policy be adopted by all other institutions, and be made known to the public."

Only one commissioner, McQueen Quattlebaum of Johnston, S. C., spoke against the entire report of the committee on Christian Relations.

Condemns Hypocrites

He recalled Christ's condemnation of the Pharisees as "hypocrites" in charging that ministers "preach one thing and do another."

"How many of you have gone to a single colored man and asked him to join the church?" he asked.

Quattlebaum said ministers wanted to "ram things down our throats" like the Assembly statements on race, but did little toward actually bringing Negroes into the church.

Other Actions

In other actions, the assembly: — Approved a watered down version of a proposal that capital punishment be condemned, by saying that only it "raises serious questions concerning the responsibilities of Christians."

— "Joined in the concern expressed by the Asheville, N. C., Presbytery over the spread of pornographic literature."

— Refused by a 303-88 vote after sharp debate to withdraw from the National Council of Churches attack by minority spokesman as "a group of left-wingers" but defended by retiring Assembly Moderator Edward Grant of Baton Rouge, La., as being "as thoroughly Christian as I am."

— Made it clear that moves toward union with other churches should be limited to those "committed to the reformed faith." The Assembly declined to drop the name of the 3.3 million member United Presbyterian Church U. S. A. (Northern) from those with whom "conversations" should be continued.

— Heard a report that the church's $12 million capital fund campaign has already been oversubscribed by $1 million with more than seven weeks to go. The total represents pledges from 1,639 churches with another 500 expected to report later.

Health Study

The Assembly also declined to order a study of the "effects of tobacco on the human body" from its permanent Christianity and Health Committee, agreeing with commissioners who argued that this was not a proper concern of the church and an area still clouded in controversy.

Commissioners turned over to permanent committees a number of proposals from presbyteries for more lay preaching and administration of sacraments and one objecting to the use of the title "the reverend" for ministers.

Not Mandatory

Another section of the Christian Relations report made it clear that the racial recommendations are not mandatory and that the final decision is up to local churches or trustees of institutions.

The original proposal had specified they were "not mandatory but ministerial." This was changed to read "not mandatory but pastoral and prophetic in nature."

A report submitted by the committee showed that only 42 of 1,056 churches which answered a questionnaire "have ever received any Negro members." But the same committee pointed out that 11 of the churches 23 junior and senior colleges have announced they are no longer segregated, while all five of the denomination's seminaries and schools of Christian education are non-segregated.

NCC Under Attack

The Committee on Inter-Church Relations had recommended a negative answer to the request by the Central Mississippi Presbytery for withdrawal from the National Council of Churches. That brought on the hottest debate of the five-day old Assembly.

Speakers attacked the NCC as left-wing, "liberal, socialistic and in some cases almost communist," and as printing a pamphlet urging what amounted to free love.

But Grant, a vice president of the NCC, said "we must endure some of the difficulties to get some of the benefits—and I think the benefits far outweigh the difficulties." He said a council reorganization is underway which will answer objections of some council critics.

Talks On Mergers

Also approved by overwhelming votes were recommendations of the same committee calling for continuation of merger talks being conducted with the Reformed Church in America, which observers say could bring full union in another year or two.

A special joint committee of the two churches recommended that they "affirm their common purpose...to seek together a fuller expression of unity in faith and action."

On the more general question of having the permanent committee on Inter-Church Relations continue talks with corresponding bodies of the big Northern Presbyterian Church "and other Presbyterian and Reformed Communions," the Assembly added an amendment limiting them to "churches committed to the Reformed (Calvinistic) Faith."

Seagull Damages Big Jet Airliner

LONDON (UPI)—A Trans-Canada jet airliner with 100 persons aboard landed safely Tuesday at London Airport after a seagull knocked out one engine as it left Prestwick Airport, Scotland, on a flight to Montreal.

The four-engined DC8, with a crew of 10 and 90 passengers including four babies aboard, circled Prestwick for 45 minutes after jettisoning most of its extra fuel. It was re-routed back to London Airport, from where it had taken off earlier in the day, because of better facilities here.

UAR Fighting Units Withdrawn

CAIRO (UPI)—The United Arab Republic has withdrawn the first of its units fighting for the Republicans in the Yemeni civil war, the semi-official Middle East News Agency (Mena) said Tuesday.

The first troopship sailed for home from a Yemeni Red Sea port Monday, Mena said.

The pullout followed an accord between President Gamal Abdel Nasser's U.A.R. and Saudi Arabia in which they agreed to stop their aid to the rival Republicans and ousted monarchists.

35-Mile Bus Trip Provides Idea Of DST Confusion

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 35-mile bus trip between Steubenville, Ohio and Moundsville, W. Va., doesn't take long but it's a great workout for a wristwatch.

In the summer months, a passenger can set and reset his watch seven times as he wheels time zones—an average of every five miles.

This classic example of take-it-or-leave-it time was presented to the Senate Commerce Committee Monday as it began hearings on several proposals to give the wristwatch a rest.

Two of the bills are designed to bring some uniformity to time standards in the country. They still would leave the question of daylight saving time up to the communities, however.

A third bill, introduced by Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., would put the entire country on daylight saving time on a certain date and revert to standard time on a uniform date.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., who presided, suggested that it might be a good idea to put the entire country on one time.

Former Rep. Robert Ramspeck, D-Ga., one time chairman of the Civil Service Commission and recently retired as a vice president of Eastern Airlines, cited the Steubenville - Moundsville example.

Now the national chairman of the committee for time uniformity, Ramspeck also gave some other examples of mixed up times:

—In Pennsylvania, all state business is conducted on standard time although more than 600 communities in the state use daylight saving time.

—In Virginia, Arlington is now on daylight saving time, next month Richmond catches up with Arlington, but remains one hour faster than Bristol. After three months, Richmond moves back and on Oct. 27, the state will again have the same time.

—In Maine, daylight savings time prevails except for the liquor stores.

—And in the nation's capital, the huge wall clocks in Union Station show a different time than the clocks in the Capitol building only a few blocks away.

Ramspeck was joined by several representatives of the transportation industry in appealing for time uniformity.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore firm submitted the low bid Tuesday on a contract to build a concrete and steel bridge from the Worcester County mainland to barren Assateague Island.

The State Roads Commission received proposals from four construction companies. The apparent low bid of $1,321,993 was submitted by McLean Contracting Co. of Baltimore.

The Maryland Legislature had appropriated $1.5 million for construction of the bridge and its approach roadways. State officials have viewed construction of the bridge as a forerunner of development of a state park on the north end of Assateague and private commercial and residential development of the remainder.

Bids were opened Tuesday against the advice of Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who has said a bridge project is premature. Udall has proposed a different plan for developing Assateague.

A report prepared by a Department of Interior unit, and approved by Udall, recommends that the federal government take over the entire island and develop it into a national seashore park. The federal plan would cost an estimated $12.3 million.

William E. Green, a resident of Public Landing in Worcester County, has a third plan for developing Assateague. He has argued unsuccessfully for 10 years for creation of a public authority to transform the island into a

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY • 86 PROOF • OLD LEWIS HUNTER DISTILLERY COMPANY, CYNTHIANA, KENTUCKY

Rusk Declares Free World Is Under Red Gun

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Tuesday the entire free world is "still under the gun" of a wide-ranging Communist menace even with the "major threat" from Cuba removed.

Rusk told the opening session of the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) ministers' council that the two major new challenges to world security in the past year were the introduction of Soviet weapons in Cuba and the Communist Chinese attack on India.

Such events over far-flung geographic areas "underline the wide scope of the Communist threat," he said.

"Although the major threat from Cuba has been removed," he said, "all members of the free world are still under the gun."

Rusk said that no member of any western alliance — NATO, SEATO or CENTO ever had been the victim of aggression since joining the defense pacts. "But some others in the free world have not been so fortunate," he added.

He described defense alliances as "the most effective way to keep peace and prevent war by error."

WANTED:

(Do you have one? It may be worth $500)

An appeal to the people of Maryland: On every bottle of Old Lewis Hunter Bourbon you will see a picture frame. It is empty. It will stay empty until we find, somewhere in America, a photograph of Lewis Hunter.

Can you help us?

The only legacy we have from Lewis Hunter is his bourbon. It is a straight Kentucky whiskey, and a good one. (We still distill it in the old way, on the same land, using the same limestone waters.) The man who could create a whiskey like this deserves our gratitude; the least we can do, we think, is show his picture on the label.

But we've drawn a blank.

In 1880 Lewis Hunter vanished. Completely. He disappeared with his wife Mariah and their children. His boys were then 13 and 11; his girls were 7 and 4.

Where did they settle? Did they grow up, marry, have families, and keep Grandpa's picture in the attic? We don't know. If you think you do, and you are willing to help us search, here are some facts to go on.

Hunter was born in Virginia, the youngest son of Lewis and Mary Ann Hunter. He was brought to Kentucky by his widowed mother before he was 6. In 1861 he opened a distillery in Harrison County, in the town of Cynthiana, turning out a barrel a day of what was considered a better-than-good whiskey. In 1868 Lewis Hunter sold the distillery.

And in 1880 he disappeared.

There is no record of his departure. But there is also no record of any Hunter in Harrison County after that.

Where did Hunter go? Maryland then was a prime distilling center; did he head up here to try again? If anyone knows... if you have a picture you think is our Lewis Hunter... may we have it?

If it can be authenticated, we will pay you $500 for the right to put it on our bottle. Ask your liquor dealer for more information on Lewis Hunter. If you find a picture send it to The Old Lewis Hunter Distillery, Cynthiana, Kentucky. You must include enough facts to help establish its authenticity. Sorry, we can't be responsible for photos; if yours is valuable, please send a copy. We will need the original only when and if your Lewis Hunter proves to be ours.

Nuclear Free Zones Planned

GENEVA (UPI) — Mexico and Brazil Tuesday invited African and Asian states to set up nuclear free zones modeled on the five-nation Latin American de-nuclearization accord announced Monday night.

Brazilian disarmament negotiator Josue de Castro said Mexico, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador and Bolivia hope their initiative will be followed by the creation of nuclear free zones in Africa and Asia.

De Castro and Mexican delegate Elisa Aguirre announced the declaration at a news conference. The five American nations pledged not to manufacture accept, stockpile or test any form of nuclear weapons.

U. S. disarmament delegation sources received the news of the declaration coolly. They said such an accord cannot help the basic problem of disarmament between the United States and the Soviets.

Senate Unit Okays Bowles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday approved the nomination of Chester A. Bowles as ambassador to India.

The nomination now must be voted on by the Senate.

The action came after Bowles told the committee he had no apologies for his friendship toward India.

The former Connecticut governor, who is returning to the New Delhi post he left 10 years ago, said "I don't apologize for my ability to get along with the Indians. If I can communicate with the Indians on behalf of my government, I consider that an advantage and not a disadvantage."

Bowles made the statements in reply to questioning about criticism in some quarters that he might be too friendly toward India.

The committee also approved after brief hearings the nominations of E. Allan Lightner Jr., a career diplomat, to be ambassador to Libya, and retired Adm. Jeremiah Wright to be ambassador to Nationalist China.

There were no opposing votes of any of the nominees.

Two Eichmann Aides Arrested

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Two former aides of Adolf Eichmann have been charged with murder in the killing of at least 300,000 Hungarian Jews in World War II, the Frankfurt prosecutor's office announced.

They are Herman Krumei, 58, Eichmann's representative in Hungary in 1944, and Otto Hunsche, 51, one of Eichmann's legal advisers. Both are former S.S.—elite guard-officers. Their arrests came after a three-year investigation.

Eichmann, Hitler's chief lieutenant in the anti-Jewish campaign, was executed by Israel last year for the wartime extermination of millions of European Jews.

Krumei and Hunsche also were accused of extorting millions from their victims on false promises to save them from extermination.

Salesman Held In Teacher's Abortion Death

BALTIMORE (AP) — Authorities said Tuesday that an infected abortion caused the death of an attractive, blonde typing teacher from New Jersey whose body was found in suburban Lutherville.

Police held a traveling salesman for questioning.

Dr. Russell S. Fisher, Maryland's chief medical examiner, said after an autopsy that the abortion which brought death to Miss Angela Lach, 26, of Sayreville, N.J., was performed Saturday or earlier.

Miss Lach was in "early pregnancy, probably under three months," Dr. Fisher said, adding: "Whether she died Sunday or Monday is still open."

Miss Lach's body, sprawled face up in the rain, was found Monday night in the driveway of a Lutherville estate when the owner returned home. She was clad in a two-piece, rose-colored wool suit and black shoes.

Inspector Elmer F. Adams of Baltimore County Police said a scribbled telephone number found in her purse, which lay nearby, was traced to a Baltimore motel. There, at 3 a.m., officers followed a man to a nearby diner and took him into custody.

Police said they believed the man held for questioning arranged the abortion. They described him as a 42-year-old traveling salesman who sells kitchen utensils in New York and New Jersey.

The salesman said he drove Miss Lach to Baltimore from New Jersey Friday, police said, but insisted that his last contact with her was a telephone conversation early Saturday morning. He was not charged.

Miss Lach taught typing at the Berkeley School of Secretarial Training in East Orange, N.J. She lived with her widowed mother, Mrs. Alexander Lach, and a sister, Edwina, in Sayreville.

A brother, Alexander Lach, said Miss Lach had come to Baltimore alone to visit friends for the weekend. He said she had been making such weekend trips to Baltimore for about a year.

A graduate of Rider College, Miss Lach had taught typing in public schools before joining the staff of the East Orange school two years ago.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — The city of Baltimore broke ground Tuesday for the first college it has ever built — the new Baltimore Junior College.

Several hundred students, teachers and alumni attended the ground-breaking ceremonies along with Mayor Philip H. Goodman and other city dignitaries.

Baltimore Junior College has occupied the buildings of the old Park School for the past several years.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police hunted Tuesday for the parents of a 2-year-old boy found wandering in the rain near a Baltimore police station Monday night.

Police officers took the boy into the station and gave him a warm place to sleep. He was unable to help police identify him.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. has approved $6.8 million in improvements, bringing the total authorizations for the past 12 months to $72.5 million.

The largest portion of the new authorization will be spent on installation of new dial equipment to serve the Maryland suburbs of Washington.

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Driver error was present in accidents causing 11 of the 18 traffic deaths in Maryland last week, State Police said Tuesday.

Five of last week's victims were drivers, five were passengers and eight were pedestrians.

Maj. G. E. Davidson, field commander of the State Police, said that driver error was present in 11 deaths, alcohol was a contributing factor in six and speed was a factor in five.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Summer business at Dulles International Airport will increase far less than expected.

A Federal Aviation Agency spokesman said that 77 or 78 flights will use the $110 million airport at Chantilly, Va., under summer schedules which went into effect Monday.

This represents a gain of only one or two flights a day, far below the increase of 30 daily flights predicted by airport officials.

The summer schedules gave 10 new flights to Baltimore's Friendship International Airport, Dulles' chief competitor for Washington-Baltimore area jet traffic. Friendship report it now has 160 flights daily.

1,000 Maryland Physicians Will Attend Meeting

BALTIMORE (AP) — More than 1,000 physicians are expected to attend the 165th annual meeting of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland which opens here Wednesday.

Among the items to be considered by the medical society's 92-member House of Delegates is a resolution calling for a modest expansion of the state's medical assistance program for the aged.

The resolution asks that the program be expanded to include flexible income limits, nursing home care, and increased dental and eyeglass care. It also reiterates the faculty's indorsement of Maryland's medical care programs.

A companion resolution reaffirms opposition to any plan for financing health care for the elderly through social security, "on the grounds that such a program is wasteful, limited in scope and not in the best interests of the citizens of Maryland and the nation."

Physicians and their wives are urged to participate in political activities in another resolution which encourages membership in the Maryland Medical Political Action Committee, the political arm of the faculty.

In addition to business sessions, the three-day meeting will include daily scientific sessions with lectures, discussions and exhibitions on medical subjects.

Dr. John Rock of the Harvard Medical School, whose views on birth control received recent national attention, will speak Thursday afternoon.

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI) — A five-man delegation from Tanganyika's governing African National Union left Sunday for Moscow for May Day celebrations there.

The average worker loses about 5½ days a year because of injury or illness.

Rain Is Lifesaver For Wicomico Plants

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A good, soaking rain fell on Wicomico County Tuesday, arriving just in time to save cantaloupe, cucumbers and watermelon planted within the past week.

The Wicomico County agricultural agent, Robert Miller, said the rain — first since April 23 — also was a lifesaver for strawberries. Another couple of days, he said, and they would have been cut severely.

Meanwhile, reported the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, apple trees reached full bloom April 27 in Washington County orchards and a few days earlier from Frederick County east across the northern areas of Maryland and Delaware.

Much of saying germination had been poor and spotty. The rainfall totaled 12 inches in some sectors of Maryland but was much lighter in other areas. Pastures and grain and vegetable crops throughout Maryland and Delaware had been threatened by the paucity of moisture.

This April had been one of the driest on record. Precipitation east of the mountains for the four weeks ended April 26 was about one inch or less. Several stations reported totals of less than one-half an inch.

Tobacco plants in Southern Maryland also urgently needed the rain, the crop service reported.

Business Failures Show Increase

NEW YORK (UPI) — Business failures across the country for the week ended April 27, rose to 312 from 255 the prior week and compared with 335 in the same week last year. Dun & Bradstreet reported Tuesday.

Insolvencies with liabilities of $100,000 or more amounted to 42 against 49 the week before and 37 in the like week last year.

Bankruptcies in Canada rose to 74 from 22 the previous week and 36 in the similar week the preceding year.

Greenland's lowest temperature, 87 below zero, was recorded Dec. 6, 1949.

Assassination Attempt Fails

CARIO (UPI) The semi-official United Arab Republic Middle East News Agency (Mena) said Tuesday an attempt had been made to assassinate Jordanian Premier Hussein Ibn Nasser.

It said the attempt failed, but did not say when it took place.

Mena said seven shots were fired by an unknown assailant at the premier on a road leading to the royal palace on the outskirts of Amman, but all missed. It quoted Amman reports reaching Beirut as the source of its dispatch.

Queen Reported Chased

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
LONDON (AP)—Visiting Queen Frederika of Greece was reported Monday to have been a victim of a manhandling by demonstrators campaigning for release of Greek political prisoners.

A source close to the Greek throne said the 46-year-old queen was grabbed outside a London hotel, spun around and chased down a back street April 20, the day she arrived to attend the wedding last Wednesday of Princess Alexandra to Angus Ogilvy.

Frederika's daughter, Princess Irene, 20, was with her.

The informant said they ducked for safety into a strange house, which proved to be that of an American woman.

The royal matron, a feted visitor to the United States on transatlantic tours of 1953 and 1958, has since been virtually besieged by picketers. Two incidents have drawn official attention and apologies by British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

Convicts serving time for the Communist guerrilla uprising against the Greek government oppose the queen's visit.

after World War II are among the prisoners, estimated at more than 1,000, that the demonstrators want freed.

One of these is Anthony Ambatielos, former secretary-general of the Greek seamen's union, sentenced in 1948 to a life term.

His wife, British-born Betty Ambatielos, has been promoting a long-distance campaign here for several years for his release.

The informant hinted Lord Home's apologies had not been considered sufficient, since he did not mention the manhandling or the chase.

At that time it was reported only that Mrs. Betty Ambatielos tried to see the queen and was brushed aside with the remark: "I don't talk to strangers."

Backed by members of the Greek community in London, Mrs. Ambatielos has been demonstrating since in front of Claridge's Hotel, where Frederika and her daughter were lodged.

Judging by the placards, their political alliances, if any, are vague, although they obviously oppose the Greek government.

Hearing Friday On FSTC Issue

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr. will meet Friday with an attorney who is seeking a hearing before the State College Board of Trustees for four Frostburg College teachers whose contracts are not being renewed.

Fred E. Weisgal of Baltimore, chairman of the legal panel of the Maryland branch of the American Civil Liberties Union, will represent the four teachers at Friday's hearing.

The four teachers have charged that their contracts are not being renewed for the 1963-64 school year because of their liberal views and because they wanted to use three controversial novels in teaching their English courses.

U.S. Teams Posed For Everest Assault

By ALAN M. KENNEDY
KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—U.S. mountaineers are gathering strength for the most challenging two-mile dash in the world—the peak of 29,028-foot Mt. Chomolungma, otherwise known as Everest.

America's first Everest expedition has already lost one man killed and incurred expenses approaching $400,000 to get where it is Monday five miles high on the flank of the great mountain.

Now six men will attempt the summit—perhaps this week, depending on the weather and the climbers' conditioning in the high altitude.

One team of two men will attempt a new route to the summit by the rocky west ridge which, incidentally, is the border between Nepal and communist-ruled Tibet.

*Two other teams will assault the snow-covered southeast ridge by which Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay first conquered Everest 10 years ago.

Snowstorms and wind have apparently blasted American hopes of a quick conquest. Expedition leader Norman Dyhrenfurth, of Santa Monica, Calif., predicted April 16 that if the good weather enjoyed up to then continued he could launch assaults between April 20 and April 30 about one month ahead of previous expeditions.

By this weekend, however, the schedule had become "improbable," base camp radioed to Katmandu.

The reason: two feet of fresh snow fell on the mountain in four days last week and high winds have lashed the upper reaches for more than one week.

Everest can be climbed only in April or May, it is generally agreed. In winter its ridges are a hell of howling hurricane-force winds that would sweep men and tents to oblivion. At the end of May or beginning of June the southeast monsoon melts glacier surfaces, widens crevasses and dumps heavy wet snow to glue climbers in their tracks.

In the brief interval between seasons men in their padded clothing and clumsy boots must chop, scramble and rope their way up 7½ miles—11,000 vertical feet—between the base camp and the summit. They must carry with them things they need to survive: clothing, oxygen, food, tents and sleeping bags.

The climb has famous perils. One is Khumbu ice fall, a wilderness of crumbling crevasses and seracs or ice pinnacles which took the life of John E. Breitenbach, of Jackson, Wyo., who was killed by an ice fall March 23.

West German Farm Problem Is Headache

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's farm problem, long a domestic headache, now is causing trouble in the European Common Market. It is a major reason the six-nation group lacks a unified farm policy.

The problem is caused by production conditions in German agriculture. Too many farmers on too little land for high prices. They would be wiped out but for government protection.

Political strength insures that this protection will continue. This 13 per cent of the population overwhelmingly supports Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party.

The Common Market is supposed to compromise various national interests and effect a common price level for farm products.

Grains Are Basic

Everything turns on grains. They are 20 per cent higher in Germany than the average for the other five member nations. Wheat sells around $3.15 a bushel, barley only a little less. These prices would have to be brought down to get agreement on a single price level for the Common Market.

The West German Farm Federation, including all farmers in this country, says the entire price structure depends on grains. These account for half the total acreage.

Agriculture Minister Werner Schwarz championed the federation's position at this month's meeting of the Common Market foreign ministers. The result was postponement in the move to arrive at a unified farm policy, supposed to go into effect this year. Dates Back To 1880

This country's farm problem dates back to the 1880s. The farmers, led by the politically influential Junkers—great land owners—of Prussia, cried for and got protection against the inflow of cheap grains from overseas. The United States was the principal source.

High duties or import quotas, or some combination of the two, have existed ever since. Subsidies have been added.

The German public foots the bill. Consumers pay 35 per cent of income for food, against 19 per cent in the United States. As taxpayers they bear the burden of a

Famed Wagnerian Tenor Hopes To Revive Breed

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP) — Lauritz Melchior, one of the greatest Wagnerian or heroic tenors, said Monday that his breed is dead and he intends doing something about restoring it to life.

Shrugging off his 73 years, the Danish-born singer said in an interview he has begun a worldwide trust fund to help their development.

"This is being done to see that (Richard) Wagner's music does not disappear because of a lack of heroic tenors," Melchior said.

"And," he added, shaking a head that is fully covered by soft, white hair, "this is happening because there are just not enough good dramatic or heroic tenors."

He blamed the ones most responsible for developing talent—the managers of the world's opera houses.

"They are more interested in filling a role, not caring if they ruin a voice," he said. "Young men, ambitious to establish a career, go right along with this."

He said the world's opera houses will make the nominations. If a man is selected, the fund will supply full support for himself and his wife for a year, in addition to paying for his training. In turn, the nominating house will guarantee his debut and then he will be free to make his own career.

Melchior said a year is necessary "because heroic tenors are not born. They must sing a high baritone role for a year or so, and let their voice point the way. When they take a year off, they must break down some of the baritone notes to join with those of the tenor."

Melchior retired from the Metropolitan Opera in 1950 and began a series of personal appearances, motion picture roles and recitals. He spent two summers in the Guy Lombardo production of "Arabian Nights" at the outdoor theatre at Long Island's Jones Beach.

He now lives alone in Beverly Hills, Calif., since his wife of 37 years died last February.

GAO Reported Baffled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office, a watchdog agency for Congress, was reported Monday to have abandoned its efforts to determine why the Pentagon awarded the TFX war plane contract to the high bidding company.

Well-placed sources said GAO has found a confusing tangle of figures which defied its efforts to find the basis for the disputed award for the contract to the General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Texas.

Repeated military evaluations subsidy program that cost $600 million last year. Farms On Decline

The two world wars helped people accept these conditions. Cut off by blockades, the country had to produce all its own food. Shortages showed what failure could mean. The farm federation exploits the memory of these hard years. The country grows 75 per cent of its food needs, but farmers are failing to hold their own. The number of farmers has fallen in 12 years from 3.9 million to 2.3 million. The number of farms decreased 364,000. More than a million acres dropped out of production. Farm productivity increased 150 per cent, largely due to new machinery.

Get rid of that put-off chore—by doing it today

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Delayed ActionBombs Your Peace

Remember the story of the practical joker who sent the same telegram to a large number of people: "Fly—all is discovered!" Supposedly, nine out of ten headed straight for the nearest means of fast transportation. An apocryphal story, no doubt — and yet we can all recognize its point about guilt feelings.

If I borrowed the idea and said: "Do that thing you've been putting off so long, and do it NOW!" would it also ring a bell with you? Or would the most common reaction be, "Which of several things

I've put off too long?"

There's little doubt that all of us are guilty of procrastination quite frequently. Whatever it is we've delayed more than ordinarily, there is one basic reason: it's a difficult thing. Physically difficult, like a tough cleaning job. Or psychologically difficult, like writing "duty" letters we really don't want to. Or difficult because it's hurtful or humiliating, like apologizing for a wrong. (Or a combination of all such motives—like going on that diet!)

Of course, those aren't the reasons we admit to. We're just "too busy." That's the cover-up. Almost everyone would have to admit that over the span of time we managed to work in some extra things that were appealing and pleasant.

Persuade yourself to do the thing you've delayed so long, right away. There's one overpowering persuasion you can use — you'll feel so much better when it's over with. Past experience should help you remember: the nagging feeling of a difficult job hanging over your head is much worse than the thing itself.

How to find the time! Just make time. Let the day's routine suffer. In the lifted spirits that come with restored peace of mind, you'll be able to whiz through the little ordinary chores that much more quickly.

The same holds true for genuine pleasures delayed. Find the time and means—to take a day off; to call on a neighbor or friend you've really wanted to see; to do some reading. Life without such pleasant interludes can become so grim and grinding it's scarcely worth living.

Ann Landers . . .Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what to do. A certain man in town has exactly the same name as my husband—middle initial and all. This man is always getting his name in the newspaper.

Last year he was arrested twice for traffic violations. In January he was arrested for disorderly conduct. (He got into a fight with a motorist who took his parking place.) Last week he ran a personal ad saying he was not responsible for his wife's debts. Our friends are having a picnic needing us and we are plenty burned up.

The newspaper prints his address, but we don't think it's enough. We are active Republicans and happen to know this man is a Democrat. Don't you feel the paper should be willing to identify him as "Mr. XYZ The Democrat" so there will be less confusion? In our opinion it's the least the paper can do to save us embarrassment. Please comment.—GOOD NAME RUINED

Dear Ruined: The address makes it clear to those who know you that your husband is not the XYZ referred to. Those who DON'T know you are not interested.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents had a beautiful marriage for 34 years. On the date of their wedding anniversary my brothers and I always sent a gift and took the folks to dinner at the elegant hotel where their romance started. (Mom was a waitress there and pop worked in the kitchen.)

Pop died five months ago. The anniversary date comes up in a few weeks. Should we continue the practice of sending a gift? And should we take mom to dinner at the hotel, as we always have?

One of my brothers says we should carry on, as before. My other brother says we should let the day pass and do nothing. I don't know what would be best for mother so I'm writing for advice. What do you say? —NOT DECIDED

Dear Not Decided: Don't send a gift to commemorate the anniversary of a marriage which has been terminated by death. And ignoring the date would not be wise either because you can be sure your mother will not be ignoring it.

Take her to dinner at a new place, somewhere she has never been before. Going back to the hotel without your father may be a very trying experience for her.

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and dating a very nice college freshman. My cousin Rozella, who is my age, has trouble getting dates. My mother keeps insisting that I fix her up. Rozella isn't very bright and I can see why she doesn't attract fellows.

Last weekend I asked my boy friend to get Rozella a date to a Campus Hop. He dug up some guy from Boston and it was all set. We were supposed to double, but they broke away toward the end of the evening and went on their own.

The next morning Rozella's mother called my mother and gave her an earful. She said Rozella got home at 4:00 A.M., dead drunk and her clothes in a mess. My aunt blames me for fixing her up with "a no good bum." I am sick about this because my mother and aunt say it's all my fault. Is it? —NO THANKS

Dear Thanks: A 17-year-old girl who has trouble with one of the simplest and shortest words in the English language should not be going out with boys.

You are not responsible for what happened to Rozella. Most boys will take whatever is offered plus whatever they can talk a girl into. From here on let Rozella dig up her own dates.

Fire Destroys Mobile Home In Rawlings

A mobile home valued at approximately $7,000 was destroyed by fire late Monday night at Rawlings.

The Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company answered a call at 10:55 p. m. to the home of James VanMeter with three firefighting vehicles.

The company's ambulance was called later when Mrs. VanMeter suffered shock. She was given first aid on the scene and did not require hospitalization.

A spokesman for the fire company said the house was enveloped by fire when they arrived.

VanMeter told them his wife, daughter Ethel Louise, five years old and brother-in-law, Jack Guthrie, who resided with them, were visiting next door at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ethel Hansel.

When he went to the trailer to get a pack of cigarettes, VanMeter was blown off the front porch by the force of combustion when air hit the smoldering interior. He was not injured, however.

Firemen were called by VanMeter and when they arrived, their efforts were hampered by the extreme heat.

One fireman, who was not identified, became sick from smoke inhalation, but recovered. The mobile home had to be ventilated three times because of the heat.

Water was relayed by one pumper to another from a nearby creek.

City Gets Two Bids For Work On 10 Streets

Two bids were received by the Mayor and Council yesterday for the resurfacing of 10 streets.

Bidders lumped the streets into one bid. Bidding was Cumberland Contracting Company, $23,326, and Stickley Contractors, Keyser, $25,833. Bids were referred to Street Commissioner Lucile Roder and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

Streets involved are Wills Creek Avenue, Kiefer Avenue, Linden Street, Fourth Street, West First Street, Rose Hill Avenue, Wempe Drive, Windsor Road, Reynolds Drive and East Street.

May Day Event Begins Today

Beverly Murray, senior class president at Fort Hill High School, reports rehearsals are in progress for the annual May Day pageant to honor the May Queen and her court Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

According to Miss Helen Smith, director, all of the dance and song choruses will be ready to be presented for the first time today.

The junior high students will view the program in the morning, and the senior high school students during the sixth and seventh periods.

Tickets for the evening performances may be purchased from any member of the senior class, at various downtown stores, and at the school before the performances.

Performances will be presented at 8 p. m. on Thursday and Friday.

To honor the May Queen and her court, the senior class is using as a theme, an Oriental girl and boy searching for the "number-one happiness." Carrying out the theme will be costumed singers and dancers.

In the lead roles of the pageant are Beverly Brown and Terry Williams.

Crossing Elimination Plans Aired By Council

Future plans for an overhead facility or subway at Frederick and Bedford Streets and the head bridge or subway would help. He added that the idea of relieving traffic congestion were discussed briefly at the meeting of the Mayor and Council Monday.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan asked James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, if there were any plans in the present planners' consideration for an overhead bridge at Frederick and Bedford. Avirett said this was not in the plans since it was felt urban renewal projects or the B&O Railroad itself might find a way to do it.

Keegan said traffic is tied up at Frederick-Bedford two days a week and he felt either an overhead bridge or subway would help.

Keegan wanted to know if George Street plans were in the present program and Avirett said they were. Keegan referred to a plan to route downtown traffic through George from Frederick to Bedford to Knox Street without it having to cross the railroad tracks.

Keegan also said he had met with B&O officials and been told the railroad plans to move its George Street warehouse to South End which would ease the shifting load in that area.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney said he had discussed the possibility of a subway with the B&O rather than "another monstrosity" overhead.

NOW — YOU CAN HEAR WITH BOTH EARS.

Now you can wear a tiny electronic device inside your ear and hear again. You'll hear the natural way—at ear level. One tiny device in each ear will help instantly identify where sounds or conversation is coming from. This is because you get binaural hearing, or hearing on both sides of your head — just as nature intended. Wear in one ear if you prefer.

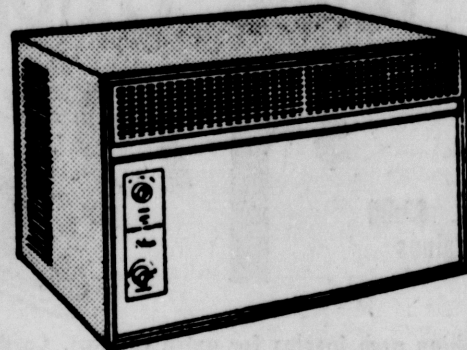

Electronic science has made this unusual hearing device possible. Operates for pennies a day with four transistors and a tiny energy cell — all fit within the ear. No tubes, wires or scratchy sounds.

Arthur Crosby, a deaf man who knows first hand the problems of the hard-of-hearing, worked on development of this tiny new instrument. Ideal for nerve deafness. Powerful and clear. Laurel Paid O'Connor $5,000 For Lobbying ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Herbert R. O'Connor Jr.'s lobbying fees from race tracks jumped to $7,500 Tuesday with a report by Laurel Race Course that it paid him $5,000 for his efforts at the 1963 Maryland Legislature.

Pimlico had earlier reported a $2,500 fee for O'Connor, Baltimore attorney who was Gov. Tawes' 1962 campaign manager and who represented the three major tracks on a successful consolidation bill.
Bowie has not yet filed its report with the secretary of state. Laurel also reported $172.76 in expenses for O'Connor. The track also was represented by its regular counsel, Eugene Feinblatt, and estimated that the portion of his annual retainer which might be fairly attributed to legislative efforts would be $2,500. He had expenses of $125.
Two big retail stores reported a total of $5,243.46 in fees and expenses for Frank A. Kaufman, Baltimore County attorney who was the leading lobbyist on a bill to regulate retail credit charges. The bill failed, primarily in a dispute over whether the stores should be allowed to charge 1 1/2 per cent interest a month on revolving accounts, as they had requested.
Hochschild, Kohn and Co. reported it paid a $2,500 fee and $121.73 in expenses to Kaufman. Sears Roebuck and Co. reported an identical fee and expenses.
The legal deadline for filing reports is Thursday, unless an extension has been granted by the secretary of state. Some 70 are still to be received.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

IF YOU KNEW WHAT HE KNOWS...YOU'D BE DRIVING THE 1963 TOTAL PERFORMANCE FORD

Ford is traditionally the nation's Number One police car. The reason: Total Performance!

When it comes to cars the police don't take chances. Put yourself in a State Trooper's shoes. Every day you must patrol hundreds of miles in your cruiser. Mileage and time grind into a man and his machine, but when the bell rings you've got to be ready. Chase. Turn. Corner. Quick stop. You've got to be able to do it all if you're going to do your job.

Listen to a trooper list the reasons why he prefers a Ford and you realize how difficult it is for any car to measure up to his standards. The car must be strong... it has to stand up to big mileage. It must be silent... when you practically live in a car a rattle can sound like a kettle drum. It must be swift... powerful enough to catch any car on the road. It must be sure... dependable even in the face of the unexpected. Strong. Silent. Swift. Sure. A four-word outline of total performance. The police demand it. That is why they choose the total performance Ford. Why should you settle for anything less?

Whatever your special demands and needs, the total performance Ford is the car most likely to satisfy you all the way down the line. You can prove this for yourself.

First, look at Ford's astounding record in open competition this year in the grueling Daytona, Riverside and Atlanta 500's, and in the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance could roll up so many impressive wins.

Second, before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Make this important discovery—if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance... total performance.

Profit Sharing Pact Signed At Keyser

A new two-year contract, containing a cost reduction-profit sharing plan such as the one between Kaiser Steel and the United Steelworkers Union was signed Monday by representatives of Emerson-Pryne Division of Emerson Electric Company of Keyser and Local 1830, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The terms are based on a cost reduction program whereby the company and employees will share equally savings realized through the plan.

Other terms, according to R. V. Burns, works manager Emerson-Pryne, and Arthur Hartman, Local 1830 president, call for a five-cent an hour equity wage adjustment in the shear and press brake departments.

It also provides for a half-day paid holiday on both Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve, becoming effective in the second year of the contract.

Burns and George Petras, Keyser plant manager, represented the company while the union negotiators were Hartman, Carlyle Robinette, James Merritt, William Shahan and Arthur Stevenson.

The plant, which employs approximately 200 workers, manufactures electrical fixtures, exhaust fans, air conditioning units, and lighting equipment, to mention some of them.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 265 There was some reason for glee in beleaguered Charleston early in 1863. Some Confederates there baited and sprang a trap for a Federal gunboat which was then turned against the Union blockade.

The Yankee gunboat, Isaac P. Smith, was lured up the Stono River in January. As it came down again, masked batteries on both river banks surprised the gunboat with a bombardment that disabled it and forced a surrender. A Rebel captain and crew put it back in action as the C.S.S. Stono. Before they did, there was another Rebel coup against the blockaders of the South Carolina metropolis. On Jan. 31, while a thick haze hid them from lookouts, two newly completed Rebel ironclads, modeled after the lost Virginia, named Palmetto State and Chicora, darted out amongst the blockaders. They did such damage with their guns and rams to U.S.S. Mercedita and Keystone State that the whole Union fleet withdrew. Both Rebel gunboats were undamaged.

But the Union blockade ships were soon back at the entrance to Charleston Harbor.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 266 The dollar IOU of the feeble Confederation, 1776-88, that begot the phrase, "Not worth a Continental," did not lose its value any more rapidly than the currency issued in the Confederacy formed by some of the wealthiest and most prosperous states in the American continent.

In September 1861, a dollar and ten cents of Confederate money would still buy as much as a gold dollar of the U.S.A. But 16 months later the purchasing power of Confederate money had declined to a point fatal to the well-being of the very armies on which any eventual worth of the notes depended. The money value of a day's rations for 100 soldiers, which had in the first year of the war been about $9, was, at market prices, $123 in January 1863.

"The currency of the new government was from the beginning weighted down with a collateral condition which caused no slight anxiety in the breast of far-seeing and circumspect men," a contemporary wrote. That weighty condition was the promise to pay the stipulated amount to the bearer of the imprinted piece of paper only at the specified time "after the ratification of a treaty of peace between the Confederate States and the United States of America" [see below]. Thus, caution in acceptance of a Confederate Treasury note at face value was justified. The element of uncertainty made the purchasing power of the currency as shifting as the fortunes of the Confederate armies. It rose with a decisive victory, fell with a resounding defeat. Meanwhile, heedless of the effects, the government's masters let their presses continue grinding out the fiat money.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Baseball's most celebrated base-stealer, "athlete of the year," night-club performer, banjo player and singer, this week adds authorship to his long list of laurels—who else could I mean but the Dodger's Maury Wills? Maury's life story, "It Pays to Steal," is just hitting the bookshelves.

But here's the kicker: Maury not only wants to sell his tome to the movies, he wants to star in it himself. Well, who could be better? The 30-year-old whizz of the base paths is a good-looking boy, he's proven he has a show business personality in Milton Berle's nightclub act — and his name would be a big draw to the little and big league fans.

In his private life, Maury is the father of five little Wills and he and his wife are expecting the sixth in three months at the family home in Spokane.

Fate frequently writes ironic twists to Hollywood marriages, but none stranger than that of Rhoda Borgnine, Ernie's first wife, who divorced him with such bitterness before he married Katy Jurado.

Rhoda proclaimed to the high heavens that she was the most miserable woman alive when her marriage to Ernie came to an end. But look what has happened!

Now Rhoda and Charles Sonne, the Van Nuys jeweler, are planning to be married very shortly. And Ernie is involved in another divorce action, equally bitter, with the fiery Kate.

Rhoda and her jeweler boyfriend have been going together for some time, but she postponed marriage until her (and Ernie's) daughter completed her college education and started teaching school.

With all the news he makes these days (and nights) it's hard to recall when Glenn Ford lived such a quiet, uneventful life as his married days to Eleanor Powell. He must need a secretary just to take care of his "dates"—the newest enthusiasm being Rhonda Fleming whom he likes so much he's permitting her to decorate two new rooms in his home.

But careerwise, he has a jolt up his sleeve: Glenn's houseguests are the Peter Hurkos, he being the famed psychic from Holland who is in this country on a lecture tour. Glenn will do a movie of the story of Hurkos' life titled "The Man Who Knew Too Much."

"You should let me bring Mr. Hurkos to your home—what he'll tell you about your past and your future will shake you up," Glenn says. Well, I'll have to think about that.

Martin McKneally, who came to Los Angeles in time for the Y. Frank Freeman dinner, was formerly commander of the American Legion. He is an old friend of mine and told me about a motion picture which is purely patriotic, being made by the Monaco French Co., based on the life of Lafayette.

It has already been booked in 160 theatres in Africa and opens there May 28. Jack Hawkins, Orson Welles and Edmund Purdom are in the cast. Martin describes himself as the American consultant.

The picture tells about the Revolutionary War and Lafayette's unselfish devotion to the U. S. A.

County Receives Trash Complaint

A complaint was received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday from Frank Twigg, who resides on Brant Road in the Cresaptown area, concerning the dumping of trash along the roadway.

Twigg said that the trash is being dumped in a widened area used by a school bus to turn. He also said that the area is used as a "lover's lane."

The trash dumping matter will be turned over to the Health Department for investigation and the sheriff's office will be asked to patrol this roadway on occasion.

It is estimated that American boating enthusiasts will spend more than $600 million for boats and accessories this year.

The Caribbean Sea, with 1.67 million square miles, is the largest of the world's seas, next to the Malay Sea.

The bidding: South West North East 4 ♠ Pass 6 ♠ Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠ South's nonvulnerable opening bid of four spades in today's hand promises seven winners. Altho North's four aces serve only to increase the assured total to 11, he was willing to take his chances on a slam bid. His intermediates in diamonds might prove useful and, at worst, he felt that the contract would hinge on a heart finesse.

West led the jack of hearts and, when the dummy was spread, declarer observed that he was a decided favorite to make his contract. Success appeared to hinge on winning one of two finesesses, i. e., finding either the king of hearts or the queen of clubs on side. This gave South three to one odds in his favor, but presently he saw a way to better his prospects provided that the trumps broke in the expected manner.

At trick one he put up the ace of hearts from the dummy, reserving the queen for subsequent use. The ace of diamonds was cashed and a small diamond ruffed with the ten of spades. A spade was led to dummy's nine to trump another diamond high, and the North hand was reentered with the ace of spades to ruff away the last diamond.

With the spades and diamonds stripped out, declarer exited with a heart and East was in with the king. In order to avoid presenting his opponent with a ruff and discard, East exited with a small club. Declarer played low from his hand and West was obliged to put up the queen in order to force out the ace. South now had the balance of the tricks.

Declarer's line of play succeeds against any holding except where West has both the queen and ten of clubs, and his partner holds the king of hearts. Observe that, if West has the king of hearts where it was originally finessable, he will be forced to make a favorable return when he is thrown into the lead, thus eliminating declarer's club loser.

Coking Potential Evaluation Test Is Developed

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Joseph W. Leonard, director of West Virginia University's Coal Research Bureau, has developed a test which enables one man to make an accurate evaluation of the coking potential of all types of coal.

The University said the two-hour test can be conducted with conventional equipment found in mine laboratories. The school said the test correlates coals and coke blends to predict the strength of cokes, and promises to be an important factor in creating improved uses for the state and Appalachian coal.

Existing methods require pilot coke test ovens and related facilities which cost about $1 million, plus $30,000 to $40,000 in annual expenses. Leonard's method needs only about $500 worth of new equipment in addition to that found in mine labs.

Methane Gas Is Blamed In Mine Tragedy

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Visible evidence indicates ignition of methane gas near a loading machine set off the explosion which killed 22 men last Thursday in the Clinchfield Coal Co.'s Compass No. 2 mine, an investigating committee said in a preliminary report Tuesday.

The report said the ignition appeared to have taken place in an area where 10 of the victims were producing coal by conventional mining methods.

The resulting explosion of methane and coal dust, the report continued, traveled to a nearby section where coal was produced with a continuous mining machine. The seven-man crew of the continuous miner and five other men in this general area were killed.

"This report is preliminary and based on visual inspection. A final and conclusive report must await the evaluation of technical reports which are not yet completed and evaluation of testimony which will be taken at a hearing," the committee said.

The hearing is tentatively scheduled to begin May 7 in Clarksburg. The Compass No. 2 mine is at Dola, 12 miles northwest of here.

Representatives of Clinchfield, the United Mine Workers, the U.S. Bureau of Mines and the West Virginia Department of Mines formed the committee which made the underground inspection and issued the preliminary report.

Pressman Wins Battle To Run On GOP Ticket

By TOM SEPPY

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Hyman A. Pressman and the Baltimore City Republican party won their battle Tuesday to run the outspoken attorney for comptroller on the GOP ballot in next Tuesday's municipal election.

The Maryland Court of Appeals, in a split decision, ruled that Pressman's name could appear on the official GOP ballot even though he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination in last month's city primary.

Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast declared in Baltimore Superior Court last week that Pressman was ineligible to be placed on the Republican ballot because he had sought the office in another party.

The state's high court, though reversing that one point, affirmed that W. Rae Dempsey Jr. could resign as Republican nominee and directed that his name be deleted from all official ballots.

Pressman lost his bid for the Democratic nomination as comptroller to Henry R. Hergenroeder last month in a close primary election.

Dempsey resigned the Republican nomination April 18, the day after a savings and loan firm with which he was associated was ordered into receivership. The GOP city committee then named Pressman to replace him.

The Baltimore Board of Election Supervisors, following the advice of the attorney general, refused to accept Dempsey's resignation because the board said the withdrawal had been made too late in the campaign.

Reflections On Law Day, U.S.A.

Americans who resent Communist domination of May Day have several alternatives. They can join in observance of "Loyalty Day," set up by Congressional resolution in 1958 as a special day for declaring unceasing devotion and loyalty to the United States. Or they can participate in one of the estimated 100,000 programs throughout the nation celebrating the sixth "Law Day, U.S.A." The Allegany County Bar Association is celebrating the day, along with the Maryland State Bar Association. The University of Maryland School of Law will hold a special program this morning.

Nothing, of course, prevents Americans from observing both occasions. Far more attention, however, is centered on Law Day. In essence, Law Day is supposed to be a rededication to the rule of law in the affairs of men and nations. In a speech he wrote at the age of 87 for the first "Law Day, U.S.A." in 1958, Harvard Law School's Dean Emeritus Roscoe Pound said: "The law is the highest inheritance the sovereign people has, for without law there would be no sovereign people and no inheritance."

The American Constitution is a document dedicated to the idea that this is a government of laws, not of men. And written largely on the marble of the Supreme Court building in Washington is the inscription Equal Justice Under Law. To those who may doubt the importance of a legacy of a rule of law, attention is directed to countries in Latin America, Africa and the Middle East, as well as those in the Communist bloc, where the rule of the jungle still largely prevails. The only hope for a rational world order is some sort of rule of law, rather than the power politics which have determined the world's order, or disorder, for at least the past three centuries.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

When Painters Loved People

When I was ten years old, in 1913, my grandmother, on a family visit to New York, took me to a burlesque show under the delusion that we were about to see a legitimate play. I have a vague recollection that it was at a theatre called the Columbia, which may stir some memories. Having been burned once, to her consternation more than mine, my grandmother had no intention of taking me to the then notorious Armory Show of Modern Art at the 69th Regiment Headquarters on Lexington Avenue. She had been warned that modern painting could be suggestive, if not downright immoral. So home we went, without further contamination.

Well, thanks to the directors of the New York Henry Street Settlement, who had the bright idea of reconstituting the show in its original setting, I caught up with the great art event of 1913 just before it closed its fiftieth anniversary re-run last week. Remembering my grandmother's fears of the world, the flesh and the devil, I was agreeably surprised to discover what an innocent world we all lived in back in 1913.

The horrible examples of the pre-World War I age — such paintings as Marcel Duchamp's "Nude Descending a Staircase" — were just about as suggestive as any mannish form in a Fifth Avenue shop window if that form were to be whisked past four eyes at high speed. What you sense on the canvas is a series of lines and planes designed to indicate rapid action — and what could be immoral about that?

In 1913 Marcel Duchamp was hep cat stuff and the squares of the time were mightily insulted. But instead of complaining, they should have congratulated themselves on the warm and human dimensions of the world they were then inhabiting. The post-impressionists, the cubists, the men who worked in little oblongs of vibrant color, the artists who pulled faces out of focus and broke up the old mathematically exact perspectives of Leonardo da Vinci's day, were still busy celebrating human themes. The idea of abstract expressionism, which would shortly turn art into a series of patterns that depend wholly on the arrangement of color, lines and solids for validity, was struggling to be born at the 1913 show — but it hadn't quite made it.

What comes through at the reconstituted Armory exhibition, to someone who can take abstract expressionism or leave it, is that painters, before the first of the two World Wars, still loved people. They still wished to celebrate the creation into which they had been born. A Picasso might endow a woman with three eyes, a Gauguin might squeeze the third dimension out of a Tahitian which doctor — but these were ways of adding psychological insight or esthetic balance to a representation that was still a reassuring part of nature.

Everybody, in 1913, seemed to be experimenting with unconventional techniques, but they had not yet become geometers of the spirit, creating for the sake of little that went beyond a decorator's view of the cosmos.

The Americans exhibited at the 1913 show — Robert Henri, Jo Davidson, Arthur B. Davies, John Sloan, George Bellows — were least touched by the new currents — and it is probably the mark of my squariness that I still love them. But the European painters, from Cezanne and Van Gogh to Picasso, managed to combine a wide variety of new techniques of applying and distributing paint without giving the impression that they would have liked to have been born without emotions in some cold interstellar space. Cubism, yet — but not merely for the sake of worshipping the cube. Vibrating light, yet — but not merely because they wished the sun had been provided with monstrous high-speed oscillators capable of making the whole world dizzy every day.

Leaving the reconstituted show at the 69th Regiment Armory, one has the sense that no great advance of purely technical nature has been made since 1913. Avant garde painters have learned a few new tricks about dripping paint on to canvas that were not known fifty years ago, but for the most part the unconventionalities of 1913 have become the old hat stuff of 1963. Everybody is now his own Picasso, who spent his life singing "I can do anything better than you," and never pausing to listen when someone picked up the next line of the duet, "No, you can't."

"The avant garde," says my friend Willi Schlamm, "still thinks it's out in front. But how does it square this feeling with the fact that the whole darned army is now in the avant garde?"

The answer, Willi, is that only a square would try to be that logical.

Invitation For The Warmakers

Nikita Khrushchev Beats Them To The Punch

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev is a smart politician. If he had been born and raised in Britain or France or the United States, he might have won high office by election. He knows how to evade some issues and capitalize on others. He knows the art of deception in politics, and is one of the most skillful practitioners of "managed news" in the world today.

So it isn't surprising to read that the Soviet demagogue now is applying to himself an old rule of politics: "Never wear out your welcome—don't wait till you are thrown out. Beat them to the punch."

Mr. Khrushchev has made the first move. He points out, in a speech to his party, that he now is 69 years old and can't "hold for all time" the position he now has "in the party and the state." He doesn't indicate whether he might give up his post as Soviet Premier or as first secretary of the Communist Party.

Merely to mention, as Khrushchev did in his speech, that he might relinquish one or both posts will stir up all the political animals in the higher ranks of the government and the party in the Soviet Union. It is always risky to speak of a prospective ending of one's career in politics, though at times it produces a rebounding effect. The "people"—meaning one's strong supporters — sometimes feel the time is ripe to mobilize sentiment to beg the leader to stay on.

It could be that Mr. Khrushchev is just testing his own strength. If he is "drafted" to stay on in both jobs, he can emerge stronger than ever, internally speaking. But if some other influential politician reaches out for either of the two posts, it is quite conceivable that Mr. Khrushchev will prefer to give up the premiership and continue with the job of party secretary. So far as day-by-day work is concerned, this is less burdensome, and in that post he could exercise almost as much control as he could as head of the government.

Ambitions will be stirred in the Kremlin by the news of prospective change. The men on their way up will look enviously at the high posts that would become vacant. For certainly promotion will come from within the present government circle.

In a sense, however, the change in the premiership will be a test of strength. If Nikita Khrushchev is really not as popular inside the Soviet Union as the outside world has been led to believe, the decision to shift posts could really be a shrewd move on his part to pass the buck to others who have been criticizing him in the secret councils of the party.

In a country of 210,000,000 persons, it is not easy to assure uniform enthusiasm for any leader for any length of time. Economic troubles produce a constant discontent. Unquestionably, conditions are better for the average family than they were a decade or more ago, but human beings are not satisfied with half measures.

Mr. Khrushchev has been able to prevent the discontent from boiling over into revolution by keeping a war scare going. He has talked of alleged threats of aggression by the West and has dramatized the possibilities of nuclear war. All this has furnished an excuse for huge spending on armament instead of for making substantial improvements in the standard of living. But, sooner or later, even war scares die down and the news percolates through from the outside that danger of war is receding. This puts the Soviet leadership on the spot.

News reports from Moscow tell

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CAPLIN'S DILEMMA — Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Mortimer Caplin has garnered large chunks of illwill from the restaurant people because of his action in tightening up on tax-allowable business expense deductions.

Recently Caplin was dining at a swank Washington restaurant frequented by the expense account crowd when a passing waiter dumped something on him. The something was a dish of Hollandaise sauce — and it landed on Caplin's head. But Caplin made no protest, no outcry, no complaint to the management.

He prefers to believe that it was an accident on the waiter's part, and not done intentionally to "get even" with him for injuring the restaurant business, and hence his income from tips.

ECONOMY BATTLE — Congress, particularly the House, is deeply engrossed in the battle of the budget. Currently, the budget-cutters appear to be ahead — in the headlines, if not in the spending reductions they've put through. However, at least one congressman is completely convinced that all the talk about cutting the budget is only skin deep. Rep. Charles S. Joelson, D-N.J., got the brilliant idea of contacting his fellow legislators and asking them: "Can we cut federal expenditures in your district?"

After making a batch of inquiries along this line, Joelson sat back and waited for the returns to come in. He promised he'd announce the results, but wisely predicted that he wouldn't need an adding machine to tabulate them. Sure enough, according to the New Jersey Democrat, "nothing happened, not a single thing. We got a warm response from the people outside Congress. But not a member volunteered a cut in his home district."

While Joelson's poll was nothing more than a stunt, it did underline one political truth on Capitol Hill. Most members, even when they fight for economy, try to make sure that projects in their own districts aren't affected.

Bronchitis Is Easier To Prevent Than Treat

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

For a long time, any unexplained phlegm-producing cough was called bronchitis. We know now the condition is not just a collection of symptoms but a lung disorder in which there is continued irritation and inflammation of the bronchial tree. Destructive changes occur in the cells of the lining membrane, bringing an increased flow of mucus that is expelled as phlegm or sputum.

Cigaret smoking and air pollution are high on the list of causes of chronic bronchitis. The condition seldom becomes a problem until after age 35. Winter colds last longer and the excess secretion of mucus and cough continue for weeks thereafter. In time, colds become more frequent and hacking lasts longer. Ultimately, cough becomes continuous. It is loose, worse in the morning, and aggravated by fresh respiratory infections and the cold dampness of winter.

Tuberculosis, abscesses, tumors, bronchiectasis, and certain heart disorders may produce identical symptoms and must be excluded before a diagnosis of chronic bronchitis is feasible. On the other hand, pulmonary emphysema often coexists with chronic bronchitis.

The two are linked together when the thin walls of the air sacs distend and rupture. When this takes place, shortness of breath is added to the phlegm-producing cough. Three-quarters of all emphysema victims have a history of chronic bronchitis.

Bronchial asthma is a related condition, especially when an allergic tendency is present. Wheezing and thicker mucus are noted because of the added obstruction of the bronchi resulting from asthma.

It is easier to prevent chronic bronchitis and emphysema than it is to treat these diseases once they develop. Anyone with a cough that lasts longer than that associated with an ordinary cold should be examined to determine whether he is a candidate for chronic bronchitis. If so, follow the advice of the physician because this disorder ranks with cancer of the lung as a cause of death in Britain and is high on the list of diseases that bring disability and days lost from work.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Judge Miles McDonald tells of the self-made millionaire, a pompous egomaniac, who hired a ghost-writer to turn out speeches and articles for him. He not only underpaid said ghost-writer, but subjected him to a continuous shower of criticism and abuse. The ghost-writer finally had his revenge. He provided his employer with a long speech to read at the very important conclave. The employer read the first ten pages of the speech in booming, confident tones, but when he turned to page eleven—in the middle of a sentence—he found only these words, printed in red: "FROM HERE ON, YOU OLD GOAT, YOU'RE ON YOUR OWN!"

The New Yorker who opened a pet shop, specializing in canaries and goldfish, recently hit upon an eye-catching name for his establishment: Fish and Cheeps.

Hollywood is laughing at the star, an avid supporter of President Kennedy, who just received a new license plate for his Jaguar: NXN.

Gimmick Provides Plane Tickets To Annual Navy League Conclave

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The annual trek of admirals plus high and low brass to the conclave of the chief lobbying organization of the Navy, the Navy League, is on to Puerto Rico this week.

This year there are 161 free tickets available for admirals and captains and their wives — but not by courtesy of Uncle Sam. Some of the top admirals will fly their special government planes — at the taxpayers' expense — but the other 161 free tickets result from a gimmick worked out by an astute travel bureau "travel consultants," whereby it allocates one free ticket to and from San Juan for every fifteen tickets the Navy League buys.

And with the rash of industrialists and lobbyists who do business with the Navy flocking to Puerto Rico, there will be a lot of tickets purchased.

President of the Navy League this year is Robert Crown, son of Henry Crown, whose company General Dynamics, got the $5 billion contract over which there is such controversy. Young Crown is also an executive of General Dynamics, a company which controls Convair and specializes in aircraft manufacture.

Representatives of the steel industry have been complaining that there is too much aircraft in industry influence in the Navy League of late and are pushing a U. S. steel executive, Bob Barnum, to be the next president.

Most people have forgotten it, but the Navy League was founded by Andrew Carnegie and other steel executives in order to promote battleships, thereby increasing the market for steel. It was Bethlehem Steel, together with Newport News and other shipyards which actually paid lobbyist William Baldwin Shearer $40,000 to go to Geneva in 1927 and break up the Coolidge Naval Conference.

The Navy League is one of the best illustrations of the warning given by President Eisenhower in his last message to the American people that the nation faced danger from the alliance between the military brass and big defense industry.

Industry leaders who have dominated the Navy League in recent years include Ralph Davies of the Aluminum Corporation of America, Tom Calahan of Ford Astronautics, Harold Worth of Firestone, Frank Jameson, who had a missile pad contract, later went with Douglas.

Barnum, the proposed new president, is a reserve admiral and Annapolis graduate. Harold Worth serves on the resolutions committee, along with Admiral "Mick" Carney who represents Bath Iron Works, also occupies offices with Westinghouse.

The Navy League and its industrial members are picking up the hotel tabs for top guests in San Juan, and you can't get a hotel reservation at the better hotels without going through the league and its travel agency. There will be around 1600 naval leaguers and friends in attendance.

Admirals who are reported using government planes for the trip are Admiral George W. Anderson, chief of Naval Operations, Vice Admiral William A. Schoech, chief of Naval Operations for Air, and Rear Admiral John S. McCain Jr., Chief of Information. When the Navy's Office of Information was queried regarding the use of government planes by these admirals and why, it was stated that the Navy had been unable to ascertain the facts.

A Bank Birthday

May 1 may be the big day in the Communist world, but in capitalist banking circles, it's a day to celebrate the 75th anniversary of a bank operated by a lady.

The Trenton Trust Company of Trenton, N. J., not only celebrates a birthday today, but it so happens that its most important progress has been under the presidency of Mrs. Mary Roebeling, No. 1 lady banker of the USA.

Mrs. Roebeling is an attractive widow considerably younger than 75 who has taken a lead not only in community enterprises, but in international problems, and served as a delegate to the Atlantic Conference to promote better understanding among the people of the NATO allies.

What a lot of people don't know about banks is that in addition to being repositories of money and making loans, they play an important part in helping the U. S. Treasury on withholding taxes, savings bonds and in housing and community development. One part of the Alliance for Progress has been to create a Latin American backlog of savings so that people can borrow to build homes. Hitherto few banks have functioned that way in Latin America.

So as the Communist world celebrates May Day congratulations to Mrs. Mary Roebeling and the Trenton Trust Company on their anniversary of enlightened capitalism.

A Girl Page-Boy?

Out in Detroit, a 14 year old girl, Brenda Sieminski aspires to get ahead in the women's world, too. She wants to become the first page-boy.

So far, in more than 180 years of legislative history there has been no girl page-boy in the Congress of the United States. Page-boys carry messages on the floor of the House and Senate occupy one of the elite youth jobs in the nation's capital. They even attend a special school.

Brenda Sieminski has informed Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., that since there are women members of Congress she sees no reason why there shouldn't be female page-boys. Her application threatens to give members of the House and Senate as great a headache as that posed by Sen. Maurice Neuberger, D-Ore., when she asked for swimming privileges at the Senate pool for herself and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The funniest comics come up from hardship. Bob Hope grew up in a pool hall district of Cleveland; Jackie Gleason came from the tenements of Brooklyn; Buddy Hackett's father was a struggling upholsterer; Charlie Chaplin grew up in Poverty Row, London. Now we are about to see a funny woman who, to keep from starving, sold cemetery lots.

Her name is Kay Stephens and she looks like a Spanish exclamation-point. The hair is the color of a ripe navel orange; the face is reminiscent of a young Fanny Brice, the body is so slender that the clothes appear to be still on the hanger. On Sunday, she will sing two songs on the Ed Sullivan Show. In August, she moves into the Copacabana as a star.

Last winter, I saw her at the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, Florida. Miss Stephens was so funny that the Tack Room appeared to be empty; the customers were under the tables. She can trade wit with smart drunks, sing a satirical imitation of a woman evangelist called Sister Love, do a sad soulful song like "My Man," carry a hand microphone and mingle with the customers: "Is that hair, mister, or am I rubbing nerve ends?"

She is only 26, but she is faster, louder, more riotous than Martha Raye, and belts a tune like Ethel Merman, which is to say she shakes the drapes. Kay Stephens' has a $9,500 house in Margate, Florida, complete with mortgage and a marriage which burned out in seven years.

Her mother was a Slovak girl who was raised in St. Paul's orphanage in Pittsburgh. When she left, to make her way in the world, Kay's mother experienced all the hardships, all the abuses, of a girl who works as a maid for the wrong rich. In time, she married an automobile mechanic and the only thing he knew was how to stay drunk.

The family moved to Cleveland and Kay, the only child, knew nothing but marital arguments, flying fists, the odor of booze, and the sight of food on other people's plates. The little girl found peace only in church, but she didn't know which one God patronized. So she tried them all. She attended Audubon Jr. High School and John Adams, but she was so undernourished that it seemed to her teachers that she would never grow up.

To get money for rolls and coffee, Kay worked in a soda fountain.

In a normal way — from feet upward to heart. There are hundreds of veins in the legs and when a varicose vein is removed, the blood circulates through other veins.

TOMORROW: Report venereal diseases.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

tain, as a baby sitter, and raked lawns. One day she watched a gardener in front of a Catholic rectory. He wore a T shirt and baggy pants. "What's it like to be a Catholic?" she said. "Do they sing in church? I like to sing in church." The gardener said that Catholics, as well as people of other faiths, enjoyed lifting their voices to God.

"I want to join," she said. He said he was busy, to come back another time. She came back, and stood on the sidewalk. Her nerve failed at that point. She stood a long time. The rectory door opened. The gardener stood inside, beckoning. He now wore a Roman collar. He was Father Joe of St. Benedict's. He taught religion to Kay Stephens and, what was more important to her, the priest gave her a chance to wear a top hat and tails in church plays and do imitations of Danny Kaye.

Mr. Kaye was, and is, her idol. At the age of 17, Kay Stephens was modeling junior miss clothes. She also did funny pantomimes for her record collection. And, to make sure that she was theologically neutral, she became a Catholic and got a job selling lots in a Protestant cemetery. She sold 250, and got $25 apiece in commissions. Miss Stephens began to eat with regularity.

She was 19 when she got drunk on beer. Some friends took her to the Cabin Club later, and urged her to get up and sing. Kay did. She was so funny that she broke up the show. The Glen Park Casino offered her $125 a week to start singing and stay out of cemeteries. The Club Sheridan upped the offer to $300 if she'd work with a small combination. She went out and bought a cymbal for $7 and has been climbing ever since.

Today, her mother is nurse-companion to a woman in Cleveland. Kay played the part of Danny Kaye's secretary in "The Man From the Diners Club." It wasn't much, but Kaye is still her hero. Last winter, Irving Cowan booked Stephens into the Diplomat and suddenly everyone became aware of this girl.

Ed Sullivan booked her for his show. She has just made a record album for Liberty. She is now at the Riviera in Las Vegas. Next, the Copa. She'll go higher, much higher, even though she's only a hungry kid from Cleveland.

This year, she will earn $120,000. She has $400 in the bank . . .

Potomac State Beats Shepherd, 4-2, in Rain-Abbreviated Contest

Hildreth Wins Second Straight For Catamounts

Cloudburst Hits In Seventh Inning Of Opening Game

Potomac State outscored Shepherd College, 4-2, yesterday afternoon before the rains came and cut short the first game of what had been scheduled as a double header at Shepherdstown.

With Potomac State batting in the top of the seventh and final inning of the first game, a cloudburst struck and rendered the field unplayable.

The Catamounts got the abbreviated triumph, their fifth against six losses and one tie.

Southpaw Jim Hildreth, who earlier in the campaign was the victim of a woeful lack of support by his teammates, came through with his second straight victory yesterday.

Potomac State went right to work in the opening inning, with the first two batters getting on base and coming around to score. Leadoff batter Jim Willett walked to open the frame and Larry Martney followed up with a single, then both runners advanced on a passed ball.

Grant Mullen singled to drive in Willett and advance Martney to third. On an attempted double steal, Mullen was cut down at second base, but Martney dashed home with the second run of the inning.

Shepherd knotted the score in its half of the fourth, tallying a pair of runs after two were out. Terry Smith singled and John Covalt was hit by a pitched ball. Smith crossed the plate on a Catamount error, and Covalt rode home on Zack Karantonis' single.

The visiting Catamounts snapped the 2-2 deadlock in the fifth. Ed Martin drove a base on balls and moved to second on a passed ball. He scored when Hildreth's sacrifice bunt was booted, and the latter tallied on Willett's single.

Hildreth surrendered only two singles, walked four and whiffed the same number in evening his record at 2-2. Bruce Pennel, a righthander, worked on the mound for the Rams and gave up three safeties, walked five and struck out eight.

Willett, Martney and Mullen collected the Potomac State hits, and Karantonis and Smith added travel to Winchester.

Coach John Fox's Catamounts will attempt to climb above the .500 class on Saturday, when they travel to Winchester for a double header with Shenandoah College.

Pennel Sets World Pole Vault Mark

Clears Bar At 16 Feet, 6 3/4 Inches

MONROE, La. (AP) — Soaring John Pennel regained the world's pole vault record Tuesday night with a 16-foot, 6 3/4-inch leap in a dual track meet here.

Pennel, whose 16-4 mark was topped last Saturday by Brian Sternberg of Washington with a 16-5 vault, still had another try in the meet between Northeast Louisiana State and Northwestern, La., State.

It was Pennel's first vault in official competition at his own school.

Pennel Nikula of Finland has the highest vault ever — 16-8 3/4 — but that effort was made indoors and is not recognized as a world record.

Pennel, a 22-year-old senior from Miami, first set a world's record in March at the Memphis Relays with a 16-3 jump. Last month he cleared 16-4 in a dual track meet at Natchitoches, La.

Navy Tossers Win Over Gettysburg, 5-1

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Navy's baseball team posted its eighth victory in 12 games by defeating Gettysburg, 5-1, here Tuesday behind the two-hit pitching of Pat Graham.

Graham, a sophomore right-hander making his second start of the season, struck out five and walked two. The only run scored off him was unearned.

Navy totaled six hits with third baseman Ron Reihel leading the way with a single, double and triple and one run batted in. Only two of Navy's five runs were earned.

Pitching Hints

Jim Bunning Of Detroit Says Throw Strikes To Develop Arm

JIM BUNNING

By JIM BUNNING

Written for AP Newsfeatures
To be a good pitcher today, even in the sandlots, a youngster must have a good strong arm. There is only one way to accomplish this and that's by throwing the ball.

Throw it anyway you can, as much as possible. If you can't get someone to catch throw the ball against a fence or a wall somewhere.

Another thing is to get proper coaching on your way up. Get a fellow who has had some pitching or coaching experience and have him watch you throw the ball. He can tell the best type of throwing for you to use.

Two main things about throwing the ball are to get a comfortable grip on the ball and a comfortable stance on the mound.

After you have developed your arm to where you can throw fast balls for strikes you must come up with some kind of a breaking pitch. But you've got to be able to get your breaking stuff over the plate, too.

The main thing is to throw strikes. You can have all the power and speed in the world but the speed is of little value on your way up unless you can throw the ball in the strike zone.

Get the ball near the strike zone and you'll find that umpires will give you a break.

If you develop a pitch that you find successful in getting the hitters out, by all means keep that pitch. Develop it to where you can throw that pitch anywhere you want it. If you have some other pitch that the batters hit, you must eliminate that pitch or correct it to a degree where you can get someone out with it.

A pitch that is ineffective is only a pitch that hurts your chances of advancing. Develop your strong pitch and work on your weak one so that you can mix up your pitches in a ball game.

U.S. Ups Pan-Am Games Gold Medal Total To 68

Fishback Races To Upset Victory In Steeplechase

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — The United States bagged four more gold medals in the Pan-American Games Tuesday to increase its total haul to 68 but had to settle for second place behind Cuba in the baseball tournament.

Jeffrey Fishback of Belmont, Calif., raced to an upset victory in the grueling, 3,000-meter steeplechase: Michael Page of Briarcliff, N.Y., won the individual title and led the United States to the team championship in the equestrian event, and the Yanks garnered another gold medal in the men's gymnastic team competition.

The Cubans clinched the baseball championship by downing Mexico 7-3 for their sixth victory in seven games. The U.S. team's title chances were ruined when it bowed to Brazil 4-3 on a wild pitch in the 10th inning by relief pitcher Bobby Bruckner of St. Louis.

It was the third defeat in eight games for Uncle Sam's baseball team but it still assured the Yanks second place.

U.S. track coach Lou Montgomery of Cornell University had given up hope of a steeplechase triumph when famed George Young of Las Cruces, N.M., withdrew because of illness.

However, Fishback, a student at San Jose State College in California, filled in admirably for Young.

Page won the individual title in the equestrian event by compiling 78.73 points. Kevin Freeman of Portland, Ore., finished second with 63.33 points and Carlos Montorio of Argentina was third. The WHIFFS 18 — Ralph Peace, who is pitching in the Pen-Mar Baseball League for the 5th year, got off to a good start Sunday when he struck out 18 Hyndman batters while twirling Frostburg to an 8-4 triumph. He fanned the side in the 6th and whiffed one or more batsmen in every frame. It was his 26th win against 13 losses in the league. This is his fourth year at Frostburg where he is 24-11. At Flintstone he won two and lost two in 1959. A Penn State University grad, Peace is district park supervisor for the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks and is stationed in LaVale.

Cuban Editor Calls Our Baseball Players 'Sluggish Aristocrats'

"But in a socialist society such as ours athletes play not for money but for the healthy desire to compete."

Mantle, asked to comment on this editorial, said: "Sorry, I don't have time. I'm on my way to the bank."

The Havana editorial was triggered by a surprising first round result in the Pan-American baseball tournament at Sao Paulo, Brazil. Cuba beat the United States 13-1.

Favored Bonjour Scores Top Derby Trial In Derby Trial Stakes

BONJOUR WINS DERBY TRIAL—Bonjour, with jockey Willie Shoemaker up, hits the finish line to win the Derby Trial in Louisville yesterday. On My Hand, finished second, and only his nose and feet can be seen behind the winner. Bonjour paid $4.40, 3.00 and 2.40. Five winners of the Derby Trial have gone on to capture the Kentucky Derby four days later. (AP Photo/fox)

On My Honor Finishes 3d At Louisville

Willie Shoemaker Rides Victor; Jet Traffic Is Fourth

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Patrick Jacobs' Bonjour took the lead an eighth of a mile from the finish Tuesday and won the $16,200 Derby Trial Stakes by three-quarters of a length over Walnut Hill Farm's Gray Pet.

The Ambush Stables' On My Honor finished third in a field of eight 3-year-olds eligible for the Kentucky Derby on Saturday.

A crowd of 11,700 watched the 36th running of the Trial in 40-degree weather and saw Willie Shoemaker bring Bonjour up from third place to win the mile event without undue urging.

Bonjour, one of three California colts in the race, was the favorite and was timed in 1 minute, 36.5 seconds over a track called "good" after two days of rain.

Shoemaker, however, will not ride the New York-owned colt in the $125,000 Kentucky Derby on Saturday. He will pilot the favored Candy Spots, and trainer John Jacobs, brother of the owner, said Ismael Valenzuela will be aboard the chestnut son of Prince Khed-Muriel W. by Strym.

Gray Pet finished five lengths ahead of On My Honor, who got the show spot by one-half length from Jet Traffic.

H. J. O'Shea's Wild Card finished fifth, followed by Wade and Morancy's Sleuth Hound, J. J. Cherock's Investor, and Rajah Noor, the third California in the race, owned by Mrs. Leslie Fenton.

Bonjour returned $4.40, $3.00, and $2.40 and carried 122 pounds as did On My Honor and Jet Traffic. Gray Pet, with 116 pounds, was the third choice at 6-1 and paid $5.20 and $3.20. On My Honor, fourth choice at 9-1, was $3.80 to show.

Five winners of the Derby Trial have gone on to capture the Derby four days later, the last being Calumet Farms' Tim Tam in 1958.

Gene Littler, who plays the Desert Inn Country Club course so well that he has won this crown three times, is rated at 12-1 along with Doug Sanders, Johnny Pitt, Don January and Gardner Dickinson are 15-1.

And such great shot makers as Bo Winger, Billy Maxwell, Doug Ford, Al Geiberger, Bob Goaly, Bruce Crampton, Bill Collins, Jack Capri are 20-1.

Pascual Beats Orioles, 8-1; Barber Loser

Twins Get 14 Hits, Including 6 Doubles

By LEW FERGUSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP)

—Minnesota's hitters, off to a slow start at the plate this season, exploded for 14 hits Tuesday to crush Baltimore 8-1 behind Camilo Pascual's effective pitching.

A rash of five Twins' doubles in the early innings was the victim of Minnesota's early barrage of doubles. He took the defeat.

Minnesota, nursing only a 3-1 lead, put it away with a five-run bomb in the eighth, capped by

Pascual's two-run single and Rich

Rollins' two-run double.

Pascual lost his shutout in the sixth when Al Smith doubled, and scored on Brooks Robinson's line single.

Pascual was effective in the clutch. Despite Baltimore's 11 hits only Smith got past second base as Pascual recorded his second straight victory after three early season defeats.

Barber, the American League's strikeout leader, might have experienced a better fate. Two of the Twins' run-scoring doubles came on balls that might have been caught for outs.

Bob Allison, who leads the AL

in runs batted in with 18, doubled to the base of the right field fence

in the first inning to score Vic

Power who had singled. Smith misjudged Allison's windblown drive on what appeared to be a routine fly, and the ball dropped behind him.

Bernie Allen doubled in the second. He scored as Doulo Ver-salles' sinking liner to left went for another two base hit when

John Powell missed trying for a steering catch.

Stock Market Closes Out April With Good Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—After two sessions of mild, irregular decline, the stock market returned to the winning column Tuesday and ended April with a substantial gain for the month.

The market was uncertain in early trading, showed a slight advance by midsession, then improved progressively in the afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.59 to 717.70. This put its gains for the month at 35.18.

Volume rose to 4.71 million shares from Monday's 4 million.

Of 1,343 issues traded, gainers outnumbered losers 609 to 444. Highs for the year totaled 110 and lows 21.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .6 to 270.4 with industrials up 1.3, rails up .2, and utilities up .1 to a new high for the year.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Active buying pushed May wheat sharply higher in the second consecutive session Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Other wheat contracts firmed, while corn and oats held steady and soybeans fell back under the weight of heavy initial delivery notices.

At the final bell, wheat was up 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents unchanged to 1 1/4; soybeans off 1/4 to 1/2; corn off 1/4 to 1/2.

Short covering and stop loss buying added more than 2 cents to the May wheat on top of a 2 1/2-cent gain Monday. Profit-taking pared the gain late in the day.

Brokers said the demand reflected a recent government projection of a 3-million bushel carryover of red wheat at the end of the season against an earlier forecast of about 11 million bushels.

No tenders were posted against wheat by noon. Corn notices were 1,200,000 bushels, and soybeans 1,250,000 bushels.

Corn and oats moved narrowly despite the somewhat heavy contract volume. Soybean selling dropped to 245,000 bushels Monday. Britain bought 400,000 bushels of corn, and Holland 400,000 bushels according to export sources.

Rye prices were uneven, with the May slightly firmer and other contracts steady to fractionally lower.

Soybeans felt the effect of heavy delivery notices and lower prices for oil and meal. Traders sold May and bought August beans at even money.

Outside markets were mixed. Kansas City wheat futures were steady, while flour futures at Minneapolis lost as much as 7 cents a bushel to set new lows for the season.

On the 17th anniversary of our son's birth, Gerald (Buttons) Welsh, May 1st, who was taken from us Nov. 15, 1962. If each who drives a car could meet The parents left behind.

And step into that darkened home Where once the sunlight shined, And look upon the vacant chair Whereon our son did sit, I'm sure each reckless driver Would be forced to think a bit of everyone who takes the wheel. Would say a little prayer, And keep in mind the others Depending on his care.

And make a vow, and pledge himself To never take a chance, The great crusade for safety Would suddenly advance.

LaVale Fire Tax Referendum Set For June 4

Registration Will End May 20

A special referendum will be held in the "LaVale Fire Area" on Tuesday, June 4, on a proposed fire tax to benefit the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department which provides fire protection in that area.

Although this area is essentially in Election District 29, it also embraces small portions of Election Districts 5 and 6.

This referendum was authorized by House Bill 991, which was enacted into law and signed by Governor J. Millard Tawes. It was introduced jointly by four delegates from Allegany County: Fred H. Anderson, J. Glenn Beall Jr., Noel Speir Cook and David J. Williams. Delegates Lester B. Reed and Charles M. See did not participate as sponsors.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk for the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, reminded prospective voters in the area provided fire protection by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department that they must register by Monday, May 20, if they are not already registered in the county. The registration books for this area will be closed after May 20 until June 5, the day after the referendum.

If the voters approve the fire tax in the June 4 referendum, it would be up to the County Commissioners of Allegany County to levy annually against all assessable real property within the area served by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department a tax not to exceed 10 cents on each $100 of assessable real property to pay the annual requirements of expenditures necessary to maintain and operate the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department.

A similar referendum was held for the LaVale fire area on August 20, 1959, and 69.5 per cent of those voting rejected the tax. The vote was 633 against and 276 for the tax.

New Traffic Plan In Effect On Two Streets

The change in the traffic pattern on Park Street and Maryland Avenue will go into effect today at 10 a. m., according to Police Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Commissioner Keegan said the proposal has been under advisement for some time by the Police Department. Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney and Sgt. E. Gordon Hite of the city Traffic Bureau, have been working on the changes several months, Keegan said.

The major change, Commissioner Keegan said, will be that Park Street will be made one-way southbound from Harrison to Williams Street, and that Maryland Avenue will be made one-way northbound from Williams to Harrison.

The cross streets, Cecelia, Central Avenue, Harrison and Emily will also tie-in to the program. Cecelia will be one-way westbound, Central Avenue one-way eastbound, while Emily Street will remain as a two-way route. Harrison will be one-way westbound.

Traffic at the intersection of Williams Street and Maryland Avenue will be controlled by lights, granting a constant "green" to motorists on Williams Street desiring to turn right, (or south), on Maryland Avenue. Traffic wanting to turn left off Williams to Maryland Avenue, or wanting to continue on Williams, will also be controlled by lights.

Williams Street, from a point just above Kingsley Methodist Church to Maryland Avenue, will be handled in two lanes. The right lane for drivers turning right at the intersection, and the left lane for both left turns and straight ahead routes.

Keegan also announced that some parking changes will be made to conform with the program.

These 22 applicants without licenses as the new license year starts include three Class A beer licenses for off-premises consumption, 10 Class A beer and wine licenses, one Class A beer and wine license for off-premises consumption, two Class D beer and wine licenses, two Class D beer, wine and liquor licenses and four Class C club-type beer, wine and liquor licenses.

Phone Workers Reject Proposal

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va. (UPI)—About 80 striking employees of the General Telephone Co. of the Southeast have rejected a new contract proposal offered by the company during negotiations with representatives of the Electrical Workers union at nearby Winchester, Va.

Company employees in the Charles Town and Romney districts went on strike April 8, after their old contract expired.

Company vice president W.N. Scholl, Bluefield, said the conditions presented to the union at negotiations attended by federal mediator James Holden included a 90-day no strike agreement, implementation by the company of its last wage proposal and a plant work-week proposal to give adequate service to the public.

Scholl said no further meetings were scheduled but that both parties agreed to maintain contact with Holden.

He also reported that a telephone pole was chopped down and a guy wire was cut about four miles west of Romney Monday night, knocking out long-distance service to Moorefield, Petersburg, Maysville and Burlington.

Governor Signs Bill To Outlaw Slot Machines

Higher Education Measures Approved

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — "You know, I haven't heard one peep about this bill since the legislature adjourned," Gov. Tawes said Tuesday as he signed the bill outlawing slot machines in Maryland.

It was Tawes' only comment on the measure and was directed to the Rev. Charles F. Kirkley of Kensington, who was standing behind him as he signed it.

The Rev. Mr. Kirkley, a former Annapolis minister who headed an Anne Arundel County citizens group which opened up the slots battle several years ago, was invited to the bill-signing by the governor.

He was the only anti-slots leader present as the 1963 General Assembly's most explosive issue became law with the quiggle of a pen. It takes effect June 1. The act provides that the four Southern Maryland counties which have licensed slot machines legally for the past 15 years must be rid of them by July 1, 1968.

Put On Pressure

They will be limited to present numbers for the next two years and then reduced in steps over the following three years. Tawes considered the five-year reprieve necessary to get the bill through the legislature over pleas of economic hardship by the four counties.

It was enacted under tremendous pressure from the governor, who campaigned last year with a pledge to abolish slots. On one occasion the bill failed by two votes in the house but was resurrected and finally passed 93-42 after interferences by legislators that some delegates had been influenced by slot machine money.

The senate approved the bill 25-3 after the administration had turned back efforts to prolong the grace period further and send the bill back to the house.

The slots measure was in a stack of 251 bills and two joint resolutions signed by the governor, Senate President William S. James and Acting House Speaker Marvin Mandel.

They have approximately 150 remaining for a final session next Monday, but Tawes is likely to veto some of these.

Affect Education

A flock of other important bills were in the group Tuesday, including three affecting higher education.

The University of Maryland received authority to plan and establish undergraduate branches in Baltimore County, Western Maryland, Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore as part of a long-range expansion program.

State contributions were authorized for buildings at three private colleges — $750,000 for St. Joseph's at Emmitsburg, $500,000 for Western Maryland College and $75,000 to St. John's at Annapolis.

Another act will set up a Maryland corporation to make loans to college students to help finance their education.

The governor also approved a $5 million state program to supplement construction of water and sewage facilities by municipal corporations and sanitary districts, a pay raise for State Police, and revision of the illegitimacy laws to make it easier to require reputed fathers to support their offspring.

County Planner Duties Outlined

Some confusion among the public has arisen over the duties of Andrew C. McMinimee, a senior at Iowa State University in Ames, who was approved as county planner by the Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Mr. McMinimee, a 25-year-old Marine Corps veteran, will report for duty here June 10.

Some people mistakenly thought that Mr. McMinimee would succeed C. Lee Renaud, who has been county planning director since the fall of 1961.

Mr. Renaud will continue to be head of the department. Mr. McMinimee will be assisting in three studies planned with part of the $49,020 in Section 701 federal money the county will get through the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Morgan County Fires Ruined 8,374 Acres

April 20 Weekend Damage Computed

Over 8,000 acres of land were burned in Morgan County, W. Va., the weekend of April 20, according to John Porter, district forester at Romney, who said it is the worst series of forest fires he recalls in the past 10 years in that section of the state.

The "big one" occurred in the vicinity of Paw Paw where there were actually three separate fires that weekend which kept volunteer firemen and personnel of the state's Department of Natural Resources on the move.

An estimated total of 6,300 acres of land were scorched in the "big one," said the district forester.

He pointed out that 496 acres and 278 acres were burned in the two other fires, all of which broke out in separate places.

Another extensive fire occurred at Sleepy Creek where flames went out of control and burned an area of 1,300 acres.

Mr. Porter, who has been district forester for about four and a half years, said authorities are quite certain they know how the fires started, although he would not divulge the causes.

He said yesterday the rain which fell in the area Monday and Tuesday has alleviated the fire danger situation and the forests are in "good shape."

However the 11 fire towers of District Two comprising eight West Virginia counties will remain open for another week, he added.

The two fire seasons each year are March through May and October through December, said Mr. Porter.

City Cleanup Drive Is Back On Schedule

The annual cleanup campaign of the City of Cumberland was on schedule yesterday afternoon after 144 loads of accumulated trash and debris were hauled to the city dump.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, said 72 loads of trash were collected yesterday as crews backtracked and picked up trash in South Cumberland and then moved to the area north of Williams Road to south of Bedford Road and the East Side.

The collection was reported "very heavy" in the Central Avenue section.

Work was speeded yesterday as two extra dump trucks were assigned to the work, making a total of 11 large trucks.

The trash is piling up at the city dump, according to Ray Valentine, street superintendent.

He said a bulldozer is being used to push the debris into a ravine at the dump.

Officials expect to be able to keep up with the drive, barring a heavy rain.

Today's collection will be from the north side of Bedford Street to Piedmont Avenue in North Cumberland, the Valley Road area and the business section.

A record collection is anticipated Thursday, when crews cover the West Side from Mechanic Street to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Friday has been set aside for check backs and final trash pickups.

Hearing Is Set On Liquor Price Fixing Proposal

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has set a hearing for 10 a. m. Thursday on a bill to fix minimum retail prices on liquor.

The bill generated considerable controversy at the 1963 legislative session and has brought the governor a flood of mail, pro and con, since its enactment.

It is generally supported by whisky wholesalers and operators of smaller package goods stores and opposed by operators of cut rate stores.

Two prominent Baltimore attorneys are expected to represent the opposing forces — Herbert R. O'Connor Jr., as counsel for backers of the bill, and Hyman A. Pressman for those opposing it.

O'Connor was Tawes' statewide campaign manager in the last election. Pressman, a public figure as a result of his many taxpayers' suits, was defeated in the Democratic primary for Baltimore comptroller but was picked up by Republicans as their candidate in a move upheld Tuesday by the Court of Appeals.
